Subject area

Linguistics: Syntax/Morphology

Method / Type of data

Acceptability rating data (7-point Likert scale)

Participants (of the study)

.....

Short description (of the study)

The participants rated the acceptability of Polish examples of ATB topicalization and RNR where the shared DP bore either (i) a matching case form, (ii) a syncretic case form, (iii) a case form unambiguously indicating the case assigned by the verb in the adjacent conjunct, or (iv) a case form unambiguously indicating the case assigned by the verb in the distant conjunct. The study was intended to answer the following research questions: (i) Do ATB movement and RNR show the same pattern of acceptability ratings? (ii) Do sharing constructions exhibit the case syncretism effect? (iii) Do sharing constructions exhibit the case proximity effect? (iv) Is there evidence for a case matching requirement restricting the range of well-formed sharing constructions? If such a parallelism requirement exists, is it syntactic or morphonological in nature? (v) Based on the range of acceptable case patterns, can we draw any conclusions about which of the different approaches to the syntax of sharing constructions is best suited for deriving ATB movement and RNR?

STORAGE AND LONG-TERM PRESERVATION

Archive

Does this dataset have to be preserved for long-term?

yes

How long does the data need to be stored?

The DFG expects primary data that is the basis of a publication to be stored in the researcher's own institution or an appropriate nationwide infrastructure long-term (for at least 10 years).

What are the reasons this dataset must be preserved for the long-term?

- Use in a publication / Evidence of good scientific practice
- Reuse (if anonymizable data) in subsequent projects or by others
- Legal obligations
- Documentation because it is socially relevant
- Self-commitment
- Evidence of good scientific practice
- DFG requirements

Where will the data (including metadata, documentation, and relevant code) be stored or archived after the end of the project?

- CRC 1287 File-Server
- OSF
- Research Data Server from Project IN-FDM-BB (a.t.m. not available)
